

Project Team

Client: Legal & General
Main Contractor: Bowmer & Kirkland
Project Manager: Paragon
Architect: DLG Architects
Lighting Designer: Hoare Lea
Scope of Works: Detail design, supply & installation of feature lighting and signage

Introduction Studiotech UK was brought in by lighting designer Hoare Lea to assist with the detailed design and delivery of the feature lighting, signage and re-branding throughout the refurbishment of The Light, a busy leisure and retail destination at the heart of Leeds city centre owned by Legal & General.

Studiotech took their initial designs and engineered a bespoke and dynamic lighting solution. The concept included various areas throughout the centre, including new signage: both interior and exterior, lighting to the roof beams and lastly, feature ring lighting.

The Solution Studiotech provided a specialist solution including the detailed design and manufacture of forty four bespoke feature rings in three different sizes.

Each ring is constructed from a reinforced aluminium back tray with aluminium returns and an opal acrylic face panel. These are illuminated internally with an RGBW LED strip system with each one being individually addressable allowing us to programme a variety of effects and scenes, producing exciting and innovative visual displays. The programming also allows for future sequences to be assigned for key calendar dates and special events.

Installation The rings were either suspended from the ceiling, attached to the central column or footbridge mountable: each option meaning our engineers had to work at a height of up to 25 metres.

The overall installation highlights a fantastic effort from the whole team involved. From detailed design, to engineering and installation and finally on to the programming, Studiotech have engineered and delivered this project to a very high but affordable quality.

We are proud to add this development to our portfolio, and that The Light sees Studiotech assist in the creation of yet another iconic city centre destination.

Testimonial The guys at Studiotech have performed admirably on this project. We specified them as suppliers and installers of a number of elements of this scheme and they met our particular requirements in both product manufacture, supply and installation as well as undertaking the very specific programming of the control system to perform the light shows.

Their performance on site was commendable and their integration with the contractor was seamless.

I'm very glad we partnered with them on this project – the end result is fantastic and we wouldn't hesitate to work with them on future projects.
